

Aesthetics

The Dialectics and Theatrics of Theatre and Communication

Effiong Johnson

Contents

Dedication	ii
Foreword by Professor Udo Etuk	x
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction by Professor Des Wilson	15
Chapter 1: Aesthetics: A Discourse	19
Introduction	19
Aesthetics: Foundations	20
Aesthetics: Theoretics	24
The Aesthetic Concept	24
The Aesthetic Attitude	28
Aesthetic Emotion	31
Aesthetic Elements Identified	34
The Aesthetic and the Moral	35
Applied Aesthetics	41
Aesthetics: Reapplied	51
The Aesthetic in Lighting	59
Aesthetic Theories versus Theatre Arts	60
The Hedonistic or Pleasure Theory	61
The Contextualism or Naturalism Theory	63
The Formism or Imitation Theory	66
Subjectivist and Objectivist Theories	69
Who Qualifies as Aesthetician?	72
Working Definitions	74
Chapter 2: The Aesthetic in the Script	77
Introduction	77
The Cover Design	78
The Title	79
The Story of the Drama	80
The Language with Which the Story is Told	85
Characters and Characterizations	87

The Setting	90
The Duration of the Drama	92
The Creative Technicalities in the Script	93
The Story-Telling Approach	93
The End-is-the-Beginning Approach	94
The Open-ended Device	95
The Futuristic Style	96
The Flashback	96
The Plot on Which the Story is Anchored	97
The Levels of Conflict	97
The Moral Lesson	98

Chapter 3 The Aesthetic in Acting 101

Introduction	101
The Creative Casting	102
The Person of the Actor	103
The Carriage of Roles	104
The Striking Relationships	105
Background Depictions	109
Movements: Both Intra and Inter	113
Style and Acting	116
Acting in Relation to Atmospheric Conditions	118
Acting in Relation to Health Conditions	119
Acting in Relation to Age	120
Acting in its Average Score	121
Acting and the Acting Space	122

Chapter 4: The Aesthetic in Directing 127

The Premise	127
The Person of the Director	127
Special Demands of the Script	128
Choice of the Play	129
Audition and Casting	130
The Aesthetic in Blocking	131
Suitability to Role	132
Suitability to the Situation	133
Suitability to Mood	133

Suitability to Stage Action	134
Props' Selection	134
Stage Arrangement	136
Rehearsing to Attain Mastery	137
The Arts of the Collaborators	139
The Director's Interpretation and Communication	142
The Choice Approach in Directing the Play	142
The Audience versus the Aesthetic	144
Targeting to Achieve Total Effect	146
Post-Production Feedback	147

Chapter 5: The Aesthetic in Costume and Make-up 151

Introduction	151
The Availability of a Good Designer	152
The Texture of the Material	153
The Costume Tailor	153
Uncompromised Fitability	154
Status Conferral	155
Choices of Colour	155
Costume and Style	157
Costume and Relationships	159
Costumes in Relation to Scene Change/ Time Change/Location Change, etc.	159
When Skin Decoration or Bare Body Gives the Aesthetic	160
The Aesthetic in Make-up: Introduction	161
Foundation Make-up	163
Character Depiction	163
Approximate Depictions	164
Making-up for Mood/Occasion	166
Make-up and Period Depiction	167
Making-up Deliberately to Appeal	170

Chapter 6: The Aesthetic in Music, Songsand Sound 173

Introduction	173
Relevance	174
Mood Creation	175
Music Signifiers	175
Music Melody	176
The Rhythm of the Music	177
The Aesthetic in Songs: Introduction	178
The Purpose of the Song	178
The Singer	179
Who Sings the Song?	179
The Length of the Song	180
Chorus or Solo?	180
Songs and Accompaniments	181
Singing and Dancing	182
The Aesthetic in Sound	183
When Noise is Beautiful	183
Purpose in Sound	184
Clarity of Sound	185
Sound Control /Intensity	186
Sound and Equipment	187

Chapter 7: The Aesthetic in Lighting and Scenery 191

Introduction	191
Lighting and the Revelation of Scenery Forms	192
Lighting for Costume Enhancement	193
Creation of Effects	194
Availability of Equipment	194
Even Basic Illumination is Beautiful	195
"Beware of Green"	196
When Light Tells a Story	197
The Aesthetic in Scenery	198
The Scenic Background	198
Dominant Background Colour	199
Environment for Action	199

Scenery in Relation to Characterization	200
Scenery in Relation to Time and Place	200
Scenography and Mood Creation	201
When Scenery is a Thematic Reinforcement	202
The Scenic Persona, the Designer	203
Scenic Design and Lighting	204

Chapter 8: The Aesthetic in the Stage 207

Introduction	207
A Properly-Designed Stage for the Theatre	207
Stage and Space Provision	209
Stage-Type and Creating the Aesthetic	210
The Stage versus Directorial Approach	213
The Stage and Décor	216
Flexible Staging	217
The Final Word	218

Works Cited 220Addendum 225*Index 227

